

ITFO Communications, Inc., is a boutique consultancy that helps design, enable, analyze and optimize interactive communications projects. We specialize in meeting the needs of leading global enterprise companies.

iOS Developer

The iOS Developer will join the B2B communications team to help create innovative, learning and knowledge mobile applications.

We are looking for a passionate, technically-savvy iOS developer who will help develop, test, execute and maintain mobile applications.

Primary responsibilities:

- Develop learning and knowledge apps for Apple iPhone and iPad
- Monitor app usage and develop roadmap for future features
- Help deploy and test apps for corporate users
- Help educate and train others to understand and utilize apps

Knowledge and skill requirements:

- 2 or more years hands-on experience with iOS application development
- Proficient with Swift
- Extensive experience writing, testing and maintaining code
- Working knowledge of Apple's submission and process
- Ability to work with a dynamic team in a telecommute environment

This new telecommute position is part time and could evolve into a full-time role depending on client satisfaction and needs. Pay rate will be determined according to your skills and experience. Team members usually work from their own office locations, though it will be beneficial if you have the ability to join occasional face-to-face meetings.
